SEPTEMBER

New Masonic Lodge For Coffee County

We learn that the 17 members of the Masonic fraternity, who are to be constituted into a new Masonic lodge at Lewis' Mill in Coffee county, by F. L. Zimmermann on Saturday morning, the tenth of September, are making big preparations for dinner on the grounds, public installation and a Masonic address.

Daniel W. Clark, recently of Elba Lodge, and a Past Master of Pea River Lodge, at Victoria, has been appointed Worshipful Master. He was in Troy yesterday attending to matters concerning the new lodge.

Large delegations of visiting Masons are expected from the surrounding lodges at Victoria, Franko, Enterprise, New Brockton, Elba, Glenwood, Henderson and Spring Hill. The visiting craftsmen are fraternally requested to bring their aprons. Prominent Masters and Past Masters of lodges in Coffee, Pike and Crenshaw counties have expressed their intention to be present and assist in the ceremonial exercises of instituting the new lodge. A new hall has been built and is nearly ready for use, and thereby inaugurate a new era at Lewis' Mill.—Troy Messenger.

Haymon Items.

Health of the community is very good at present. The people are rejoicing over their white cotton patches and the high prices being paid by our merchants.

The big district meeting met at Pine Level last Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Large crowds attended from all directions and enjoyed the meeting together with the cool drinks furnished by J. M. Clark. We had a good many preachers who preached both morning and evening.

There were plenty of dinner, but seem to be fasted.

When you saw a crowd they'd say "bound for J. M. Clark's lemonade stand."

The writer has learned that A. R. Smith, J. W. and Victoria Kilcrease are intending to go to Montgomery the latter part of the week.

There was preaching Sunday night at the school house by a Methodist preacher.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Jones will leave tomorrow for their home at Jacksonville, Fla., after a months stay with friends and relatives here.

We are having a good rain today which was much needed by late crops.

Card From M. S. Carmichael.

To the People of Elba: A very pleasant duty falls upon me to express to you my appreciation for the results of last Tuesday's caucus, in which you nominated me mayor without opposition. I hope the confidence that was expressed in me will be justified. I would like to say more along this line, but owing to the fact that I have achieved a reputation for brevity, I will desist, save to say that from the bottom of my heart I thank the good people of Elba, and will do my best to make them a good mayor.

We Guarantee Every Box of Dr. Bull's Antiseptic Salve to do what we claim. Try it for ulcers, boils, running sores, tetter, ringworm, eczema, salt rheum, fever sores, cuts, bruises, pimples, black heads, chaps, felons, burns or any skin disease. 25c a box.

City Officers Named.

The democratic caucus for nominating town officials passed off very quietly Tuesday. Nearly all the qualified voters cast their ballots, but there was no working about the polls. Following is the result:

For Mayor, M. S. Carmichael. Councilman, at large, Dan J. Brooks. Councilman, ward 1, W. W. Ham, Jr. Councilman, ward 2, Y. W. Rainer. Councilman, ward 3, J. S. Windham. Councilman, ward 4, C. L. Brannen. Marshal, C. A. Lee.

The men chosen are among the business leaders of town and it is safe to predict that they will give Elba a progressive administration.

Some part of the county are suffering for rain, having had very little in a month. On Wednesday there was a good shower here.

Pippin Is Acquitted.

Enterprise, August 31.—The criminal docket in the circuit court of Coffee county was regularly called on Monday of this week. The time of the court is being largely taken up with two noted murder cases. The Pippin-Ramsey murder was on trial today. The case has attracted wide attention and quite a number of people from all over the county are in town to be present at the trial.

It will be remembered that J. W. Pippin killed Ramsey at a dog fight near the corporate limits of Enterprise two years ago. The array of counsel is quite formidable. The defense is being taken care of by W. H. Sanford, of Montgomery, as counsel-in-chief; assisted by J. F. Sanders, of Elba; H. L. Martin, of Ozark; and O. C. Doster, or Enterprise. The state's interest is being looked after by E. H. Hill, of Dothan.

LATER ACCOUNT: The above is from Montgomery Journal; since it appeared the trial has been completed, and Pippin was acquitted. It is said that the state did not show conclusively that it was a shot fired by Pippin that killed Ramsey, a number of people being shooting at the time. The defense showed that the row was between Pippin and the Davis brothers, and that Ramsey was Pippin's friend and not in the affair.

A Reliable Medicine—Not A Narcotic. Mrs. F. Mrti, St. Joe, Mich., says Foley's Honey and Tar saved her little boy's life. She writes: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." INJURY IS FATAL.

Mill Man Succumbs to Wounds Received.

Enterprise, Aug. 30.—Mr. Charles A. Batton, the farmer and mill man, who was injured by being jerked into machinery last Saturday died yesterday. Surgeons operated, and dressed his wounds, but they were of such a serious and painful nature that Mr. Batton did not survive. After the accident he seemed to realize the hopelessness of his recovery and gave minute instructions to his wife as to how to carry on the affairs of his farm and mills. Mr. Batton is survived by his wife and several children.

TO RAISE ILL-FATED MAINE.

Vessel May Be Sailing Home On or Before Christmas.

If plans which President Taft regards favorably are adopted the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor twelve years ago, which since then has concealed the secret of the disaster which overwhelmed her, may be sailing homeward on or before Christmas, bearing a long-delayed verdict to the nation.

John F. O'Rourke, of New York, submitted the plans to President Taft. The plan provides for raising the Maine by means of pneumatic caissons and steel cables. The ship will be preserved intact, Mr. O'Rourke says, with every evidence of the disaster which she may bear.

About 1,000 men will be required to attend to the facts and other equipment and it is proposed that the government furnish all or part of this force, calling out a regiment if necessary.

It is further proposed that the repair ships in southern waters be sent to Havana to minimize the expense of the work.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES. Fire originating in a lot of hay stored at the warehouse of R. A. Grant, Jr., in the extreme western portion of San Antonio, Texas, destroyed a block and a half of warehouse buildings before it could be checked after a three-hour effort. The loss is estimated at $100,000, partly covered by insurance. Eleven buildings were burned. The largest individual loss was that of the Household Furniture company, whose two warehouse buildings were destroyed. With their contents they were valued at $22,000.

Engineer Joseph Wallace was killed and two other trainmen were probably fatally injured when a fast freight and a work train on the Texas and Pacific railroad collided near Alamo, Tex. Wallace and his fireman, Nathan Davis, were caught beneath the overturned locomotive and scalded.

Brakeman Tucker, the other man hurt, was thrown from the top of a freight car and sustained internal injuries. John Brockman, a farmer living 10 miles south of Ringgold, Ga., shot his brother-in-law, William Patterson, with a 38 caliber pistol, resulting in instant death. Brockman was in his barn milking a cow when it is said Patterson's father came up with a Winchester rifle and began using abusive language. Young William Patterson appeared on the scene and a quarrel ensued in which Brockman and William Patterson engaged in a fight, the former using his pistol with fatal results.

David O. Hinkley, a pioneer farmer living near Kendallville, Ind., died Sunday from the effects of carbolic acid, given by mistake for castor oil on a prescription filled by a local druggist. The child lived 24 hours after taking the dose.

R. C. Ringgold, his wife and several friends riding in an automobile from Shepherdstown to Charles Town, W. Va., narrowly escaped death by leaping from the machine when a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train dashed around a curve as they were crossing Blowing Rock and came upon them without warning. None of the party was hurt. The machine was wrecked.

SOUTH CAROLINA PRIMARY ELECTION

Kind of Stand-Off Between Prohs and Antis.

RESULT IS YET UNCERTAIN

Second Primary Will Be Held to Decide Fight—Featherstone, the Proh, and Blaise, the Anti, Will Be Contestants in Second Fight.

In the South Carolina state elections with about 40,000 votes from thirty-one counties heard from, it is evident that C. C. Featherstone and Cole L. Blaise will be in the second race for governor. Thomas G. McLeod ran a fair third. Mr. Featherstone is a prohibitionist, while Blaise and McLeod are advocates of local option.

Practically a Stand-Off. In the race for governor and lieutenant governor the prohibitionist and local optionists so far are practically at a stand-off. The local option candidates, Messrs. Blaise and McLeod, polled a majority of the vote, while that cast for the prohibition candidates, Featherstone, Hyatt and Richards, was lighter than expected. Mr. Featherstone's vote was good, but the other two fell off badly from estimates. On the other hand, the prohibition candidate for lieutenant governor has made a great race and is almost certain of election.

Second Primary to Be Hot. Two weeks intervening before the second primary will witness one of the most heated campaigns in this state since the days of "Tillmanism." The prohibitionists have never before made a very flattering showing in elections for state officers, but this is the first real state-wide prohibition campaign that has been waged in South Carolina. All but six of the forty-three counties in the state now enjoy prohibition under the operation of a very liberal local option law, and whatever the outcome of this election, South Carolina will not be very "wet."

A NERVO ENGINEER.

Though Scalding, He Stuck to Post and Saved Lives.

Engineer Israel Brandt's nerve saved train No. 8 of the Fort Wayne division of the Pennsylvania railroad, with its load of sleeping passengers, from wrecking in the union station yards at Pittsburg, Pa.

A cap on a pipe directly above the throttle blew off, letting loose volumes of fiercely hot steam. The fireman jumped and escaped with slight injuries, but Brandt stuck to his post with blistering hands and burning face until he had brought the train to a standstill. By that time he was nearly unconscious and fell from the cab window when the train stopped. His arm was broken in the fall and he was found to be badly scalded.

DYING, HE SANG SONG.

Brooklyn Man Tried to Save Aged Mother a Shock.

To spare his aged mother the shock of seeing him totter mortally wounded in the house, Patrick Rahl, a Brooklyn butcher, put the last vestige of strength left in him into the refrain of a popular song which he bravely whistled as he passed through the room which she occupied. As he reached an adjoining room he fell unconscious.

Rahl and two companions were seen a few moments earlier fighting in front of his home. An examination showed that he had received four knife wounds. He died without revealing the identity of his assailants.

John, the three-year-old child of David T. Wilson, of 2400 Grove avenue, died Sunday from the effects of carbolic acid, given by mistake for castor oil on a prescription filled by a local druggist. The child lived 24 hours after taking the dose.

POOR ORIGINAL BLEED THROUGH

The common belief is that the real reason for this return is to be found in the fact that he delivered in New York the course of which he is now to have toasted the probability of the republican party in the campaign.

The international Socialists spent at Copenhagen very large sums and 700 guests in all. Among the delegates are the
